LW believes that “it is imperative to conduct fair and transparent examinations and tests and that does not tolerate cheating during examinations and tests”.

Cheating in examinations and tests includes but is not limited to:

- Having unauthorized material in your possession including notes or any other documents or information.
- Communication with others during the examination or test.

4. Process

Learning Works places the responsibility of avoiding plagiarism on the students. Work produced by students need to be authentic and is checked by respective tutor. In addition, this is also checked by respective internal verifier. In order to assist in this process, LW has introduced anti-plagiarism software Turnitin to ensure a high-quality standard for student work is achieved. As a guideline the similarity percentage should not exceed 21%.

5. Consequences

If it is believed that a student has been guilty of plagiarism or examination/test cheating the student will be subject to following consequences, according to gravity of the case,
